

WORD-JUGGLING DECISION IN LONG FOUGHT GAS RATE CASE HELPS CONSUMER NOT A CENT'S WORTH

Service Charge Eliminated But In Its Place are Minimum Charge of 50 Cents a Month and 50 Cents Is Added to Cost of First 1,000 Feet—Graduated Schedule Remains Same—Is Called Temporary.

The Public Service Commission made a decision Friday in the gas rate proceeding whereby a schedule of charges for gas is temporarily fixed as a maximum to be charged by the Kingston Gas & Electric Company.

The service charge of fifty cents a month is eliminated entirely. In its place the former monthly minimum charge of fifty cents is restored. The Commission allows, however, a charge of sixty-seven cents for the first 100 cubic feet of gas used. For the next 4900 feet a charge is made of seventeen cents for each one hundred feet of gas or at the rate of $170 per 1,000 feet. Then there is a gradual reduction on larger amounts used down to $1.35. A discount of ten cents per thousand cubic feet is allowed for bills paid within ten days.

The complete schedule is as follows:
For first	100 cubic feet	per month	-----	$.67
For next	4000 cubic feet	per month	-----	1.70 per 1000 cu. ft.
For next	5000 cubic feet	per month	-----	1.65 per 1000 cu. ft.
For next	10000 cubic feet	per month	-----	1.60 per 1000 cu. ft.
For next	20000 cubic feet	per month	-----	1.55 per 1000 cu. ft.
For next	30000 cubic feet	per month	-----	1.50 per 1000 cu. ft.
For next	40000 cubic feet	per month	-----	1.45 per 1000 cu. ft.
For next	100000 cubic feet	per month	-----	1.35 per 1000 cu. ft.

The present rate is $1.70 per 1,000 feet for the first 5,000 cubic feet besides a service charge of fifty cents per month per meter, the remainder of the schedule being the same as the old.

This decision covers the two cases, one brought by the City and the other by the Kingston Taxpayers' Association. F. C. Merritt, attorney for the Kingston Taxpayers' Association, will on behalf of the Association file an order asking for the refund of the service charge already paid.

KAHL ACQUITTED ON MURDER CHARGE PVT. MURPHY'S BODY ARRIVES

Sullivan County Hotel Man Whose Wife Was Shot as She Came Home from Dance With Another Man Told Jury His Mind Was a Blank at the Time.

Peter Kahl, the hotel proprietor of Callicoon, Sullivan county, who has been on trial before Judge Hambrick and a jury at Monticello this week on a charge of murder in the first degree in killing his wife, Mrs. Laura Kahl, on her return from a dance with another man at two o'clock in the morning of April 3 last, was acquitted by the jury late Friday night.

The trial was one of the most sensational ever held in Sullivan county. Kahl, who is 34 years old, conducted the Western Hotel at Callicoon. His wife was 24 years old.

The testimony showed that on the night of April 2, Mrs. Kahl and several other women went to a dance at Hortonville, in company with George Turner, 24 years old, who had gone to Callicoon from Long Island city to install a refrigerator plant in a Calli-

Before starting for the dance, Mrs. Kahl told the other women she would go if her husband had no objections, and an employee of the hotel who asked him said it was all right. After this message had been delivered, Turner came along and Mrs. Kahl in-

During the evening Kahl appeared at the dance and called his wife and Turner outside, and told them that their attendance at the dance together was attracting comment. He asked his wife to return home with him but she told him not to air his troubles there. Kahl returned to the hotel.

When the party returned to the hotel by automobile at 2 o'clock in the morning, the other women started for their homes. According to Kani's story, his wife and Turner came on the porch and he went out to meet them. Turner said, "I have brought her back to you and there she is." Then Turner spat at him.

Kahl says his mind went blank at that instant and he did not remember anything more until he heard the report of a shot and saw something fall, and then he saw his wife lying on the porch.

The coroner's physician testified that when he arrived at the hotel and started to examine Mrs. Kahl, he looked up and saw Turner with the

According to one of the witnesses for the prosecution who had accompanied Mrs. Kahl, Turner left the automobile at the hotel and started directly for his own hotel, and Mrs. Kahl was alone when her husband shot her.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

DINAH.

"Her name was Dinah," said Daddy, "and she was a gorilla. A gorilla is a relation of the monkey family, you know, and looks something like a chimpanzee."

"She had had quite an interesting life as she had lived in Africa in quite a free state, and then she had been captured and had been tamed and had been very friendly with her owner, and after that she was brought over to this country and given to a zoo in a large city."

"I don't expect to stay here very long," said Dinah. "I do not care about living to a great old age, as some creatures do, and I do not like captivity. I am different from the orangutan and the chimpanzee, who are so friendly with the keeper."

"I do not object to the keeper, but life bores me. There are some creatures who are always happy, and if they aren't always happy, they are happy most of the time."

"But I am different. Life bores me so."

"I can't understand you, Dinah," said one of the other monkeys, "and all of your family are hard to understand."

"I don't see why," said Dinah. "I understand myself perfectly."

"One of the reasons why you say members of our family are hard to understand is because it is very rare to have one of us here in the zoo."

"Very, very, very seldom is there a gorilla in a zoo. We're hard to capture as we have to be brought along in such a big cage, and we're very peculiar in the ways we have."

"We don't enjoy good health. You've heard of people who liked to get up in the mornings, and how well they feel."

"Then there are others who are ill at times, and when they get well again they are so happy to be well once more! They are delighted with their good health. They have appetites and look forward to their food."

"But it is different with the Gorilla family. We don't care for food, we don't care for food, we don't care for anything."

"Of course we get very cross because we don't eat. Perhaps I shouldn't use the word cross. It doesn't just do the work I mean it to do. And you know words must work."

"What?" asked one of the other monkeys.

"Certainly," said Dinah. "If a word doesn't work we must put it aside and choose another word. Now, you see the word cross didn't do the work it should have done. It wasn't the right word. So I put it aside and choose another."

"I choose the word sulky, instead."

"But," said the other monkey, "it isn't the fault of the word but your fault that that word didn't do. You should have chosen the right word in the first place."

"Perhaps," said Dinah, "but I couldn't bother about doing it right at once. Besides it is easier to blame the word. It is always easier to blame some one else, or something else."

"Yes, I become sulky when I don't eat, and I don't eat because I don't care for happiness."

"Food is very important indeed. It makes creatures well and happy and merry and bright."

"But who wants to see a gorilla merry? Perhaps some may care to, but I can't help that."

"The gorilla isn't a merry creature. We prefer to sulk."

"They may tempt us with the best of food. They may give us wonderful things to eat, but we do not pay any attention to such attentions."

"We go along our sulky ways and don't care. So look at me while you can. Few of my family ever come to a zoo. We're too hard to get, we're too hard to keep, and we're not any bright addition anyway. We're different from the rest of you monkeys, very, very different. As for that brimley Orangutan—they are not understood by all. He's so pleasant, so pleasant!" ended Dinah in a wavy note.

Why He Preferred a Pig.

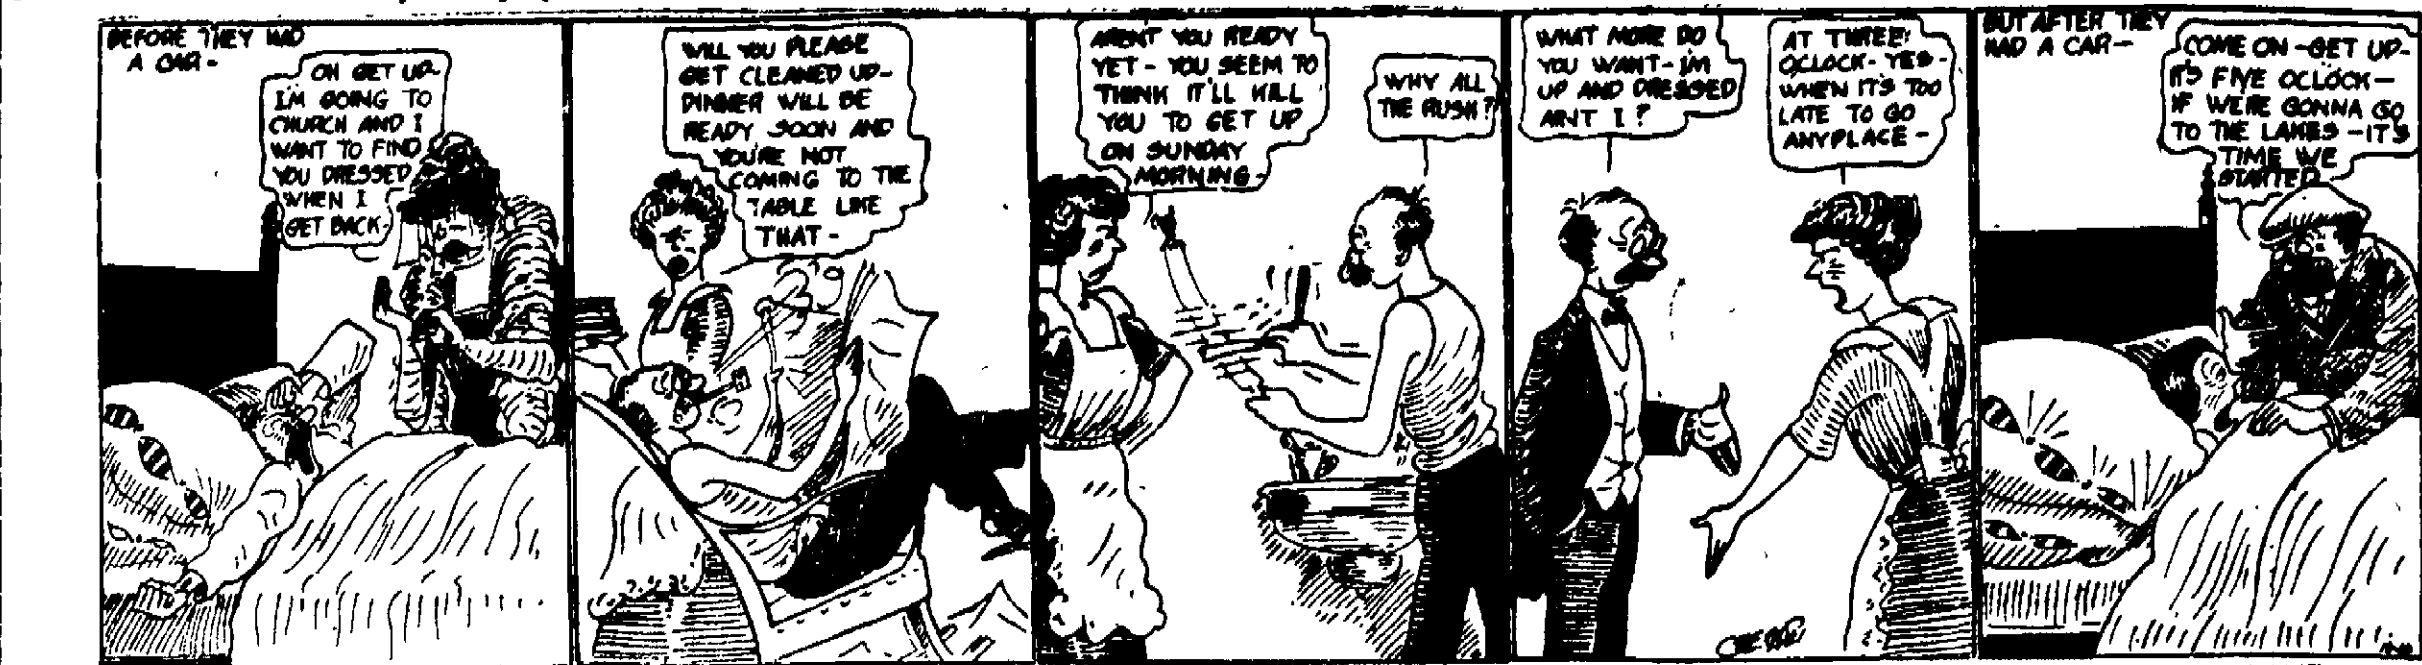

There had been kept in the bottom of the afternoon for being sulky, and toward evening he said: "Mother, why do you avoid a fat?"

"Why, Edwin," queried his mother, "because," answered the little fellow, "people who are fat don't do as well as those who are thin."

VEGETABLES

Usually two or three vegetables with the meat course is considered enough. With the variety from which to choose there is no limit. Squash, turnip, carrot, cabbage, cauliflower, eggplant, celery, sweet and Irish potato, beets and vegetable oysters are some of the many to be found in almost any market.

Hubbard squash is usually considered one of the dinner vegetables. Sweet potato is a good substitute.

Squash may be baked in the shell, then scraped from the shell and mashed with butter, salt and pepper for seasoning. This is one of the vegetables which requires butter in large quantities for seasoning. The squash may be peeled and steamed until tender, then dried out in the oven somewhat before mashing and seasoning.

A most delicious way of serving sweet potatoes is to parboil them until partly done. Peel and slice, arrange the slices in a baking dish; spread with butter and sprinkle thickly with sugar, bake until the sugar is well melted and just before taking from the oven place a marshmallow on each slice; serve when the marshmallow is well browned.

Beets are never better than when baked until tender, peeled and chopped, adding plenty of butter and a dash of vinegar if liked. Some prefer olive oil instead of butter with a dash of lemon juice and cayenne and salt.

Stuffed Eggplant—Take two good-sized eggplants and boil until tender. Remove from the fire and cool. Into a wooden bowl put two good-sized onions, peppers and a few sprigs of parsley, four cloves of garlic, four or five ripe tomatoes all chopped fine. Add two cupsful of cracker crumbs, mix well. Scoop out the center of the eggplant, being careful not to break the outside. Put this into the bowl with the seasoning and salt and butter; fill the shells with the stuffing and sprinkle buttered crumbs over the top with grated cheese. Brown in the oven. Serve from the shells.

That Comfortable Armchair at Home

One Minute Essays on Health
By Froude & Mackinnon, D's. C.

Do you know that when you sink into that comfortable armchair at home a great deal of your enjoyment of it depends on the condition of your spine in the lumbar region. Many traveling men have sat with their feet so high in hotel lobbies and railroad trains that the normal curve of the spine is reversed.

You cannot be too careful of the posture of your body to see that the normal curve of the spine are not disturbed. Not many chairs are properly made for comfort or for health, but a little intelligent use of pillows make things all right. Bladder trouble, colic and sciatica are disease likely to develop from a bad sitting position. The proper correction of course, is chiropractic spinal adjustments. If you need them get them today.

SUPERVISORS' FRIDAY SESSION

Get Rid of Main Business and Clear Decks for Committee on Appropriations—Two Salary Increases, One Cut.

Chairman Sax of the board of supervisors who was a winner at the general election in November in being elected county clerk was also a winner in getting the board of supervisors to adjourn over until Tuesday evening of next week. The reason for his efforts in the latter matter was that on December 13 the ladies of the Reformed Dutch Church of Old Hurley are going to serve their annual turkey dinner and wants the supervisors to be in town that night so they can go to Hurley by autos and enjoy the turkey and fixins' and then come back to the court house and take action on the report of the committee on appropriations and transact whatever other business may come up. Friday evening virtually "cleaned up" the main business of the regular session so that the committee on appropriations can complete their work today and Monday.

The committee on salaries and employment of county officers reported and recommended that the salary of each county officer and of each employee in the various county offices, and the number and grade of the clerks, assistants and employees in the various offices be fixed as follows, the only change from last year being an increase of $150 in the salary of the clerk of the surrogate's court, an increase of $150 from $600 to the salary of the clerk of the board of elections, and a decrease of $150 from $800 in the salary of the stenographer to the board of elections:

Sheriff	$3,500
Under Sheriff	1,800
Jailer	700
Night Jailer and Janitor at Court House	1,500
County Clerk	3,500
Deputy County Clerk	1,800
Index and Docket Clerk at County Clerk's Office	1,150
Recording Clerks at the County Clerk's Office, as follows:
1. Grade "A" at	900
3. Grade "B" at $720 each	2,160
Janitor at County Clerk's Office	450
County Judge	3,000
Surrogate	3,000
Clerk of Surrogate's Court	1,650
Recording Clerk at Surrogate's Court	720
Stenographer to the Surrogate's Court	1,200
Janitor at Surrogate's Court	450
District Attorney	2,500
Assistant District Attorney	1,350
Confidential Clerk to District Attorney	780
County Treasurer	2,500
Deputy County Treasurer	2,000
Stenographer to County Treasurer	1,150
County Attorney	2,000
Clerk of the Board of Supervisors	2,000
Clerk of Board of County Auditors	750
County Superintendent of Highways	3,000
Jail Physician	1,500
Coroners, 3 at $500 each	1,500
Commissioners of Election, 2 at $600 each	1,200
Clerk of the Board of Elections	750
Stenographer to the Board of Elections	400
County Sealer of Weights and Measures	800
County Superintendent of the Poor	2,000

The committee recommended that there be raised on the county $38,499.36 which amount together with the amounts heretofore transferred by the board to the salary account of the county clerk and his assistants and the salary account of the sheriff and his assistants will be sufficient to meet the salaries required to be paid for the ensuing year. It was also recommended that there be appropriated and assessed on the county the sum of $15,500 to pay deputy clerk and assistant clerk of the board; also that there be assessed on the county outside of the city $2,800 to pay salary of the county superintendent of the poor and the county sealer of weights and measures. It was further recommended that there be raised on the county $11,000 for compensation of extra employees of county clerk who may employ not more than five to record papers when necessary. The pay to be not more than $60 a month. The employment to cease when appropriation is exhausted. Filed and later resolution to adopt and levy amounts laid over under the rule.

The Committee on Tuberculosis Hospital and Laboratory reported having investigated the needs of the tuberculosis hospital as shown by report of board of managers for 1922, and recommended that the managers be given $500 to be paid for rent for the year of grounds, in addition to $15,000 to be placed to the credit of the managers with the county treasurer for maintenance, salaries, repairs, etc. Filed and later the usual resolution to raise, levy and assess on the taxpayers of the county, the amounts recommended, was offered by Supervisor Schermerhorn and laid over under the rule.

The committee on supervisors bills reported examining claims amounting to $19,371.34; amount allowed, $19,356.94. The committee recommended that $19,356.94 be raised on the county and the following on the towns named: Lloyd, $750; New Falls, $24.48; Rosendale, $57.19; Wawarsing, $400. Filed and later on a resolution of Supervisor Sheffield to levy the amounts was laid over under the rule.

The highway commissioners of Ulster county reported examining the work on three highways constructed under the direction of the respective town highway superintendents of Saenger, Ulster and of Wawarsing. The work was satisfactory the highway being well constructed at not excessive cost. The committee recommended the purchase of a mechanical vibrator and of two bearing rollers, also that the width of highways be extended two feet more, from 12 to 14 feet. Filed.

Filed.

Supervisors Snyder, Van Etten and Brink offered a resolution that the sum of $5,000 be appropriated for the Ulster County Farm and Home Bureau for expenses and maintenance to be used on the following conditions: For salaries, $3,000; for traveling expenses and auto, $1,050; for telegraph and telephone services, $375; for postage and office materials, $375; for rentals, $150; for printing other than publications other than periodicals and newspapers, $50. The $5,000 recommended to be raised shall be paid over to the county treasurer and placed to the credit of the account for the maintenance of the Farm and Home Bureau and paid in four quarterly installments upon the order of the treasurer of the County Farm Bureau Association. Referred to the committee on appropriations.

On motion of Supervisor Van Etten, which was adopted, the bond of the county clerk was fixed at $10,000.

Supervisor Frasier offered a resolution that there be raised on the county $2,400 and placed to the credit of the county agent for the care of dependent children. Referred to the committee on appropriations.

Supervisor Schoonmaker offered a resolution that there be appropriated for the relief of widowed mothers and their children in pursuance to Article 7-A of the General Municipal Law, and paid to the county treasurer and by him placed to the credit of the fund applicable to the local board of child welfare, to be used only for the relief of widowed mothers and their children, as provided by said law. Referred to the committee on appropriations.

Resolutions calling for appropriations offered at Thursday evening's session were called up and adopted. On motion of Supervisor Quimby, the board of supervisors adjourned until Tuesday evening, December 13, at 7:30 o'clock.

SAID MARY TO JOHN

"DOWN, WHAT IS that fine looking car that just went by?"

"WHY, MARY, THAT is the LIBERTY SIX. I'm surprised that you haven't noticed that car before this. I've been seeing that car for over a week now and only yesterday, Mr. Hebert was going by when Mr. Healy of the F. B. Matthews Company was in the store and knowing Mr. Healy to have a LIBERTY, I asked him about it. He told me he had his LIBERTY since 1917 and he enjoys it in it. Wouldn't have any other. Never gave him a bit of trouble and always ready to go."

"WELL, JOHN, YOU have been talking on such automobile these days, why don't you drop in to see a LIBERTY next time we go to New York, because I like the lines of that car—they are so graceful!"

"AGAIN, MARY, I AM surprised! We don't have to go to New York to see one of that car. Monroe Southard and Joe Hebert have been appointed Ulster county distributors and even now are taking orders for Spring delivery. They have established an office at 299 Foxhall Avenue and a service station at the Columbia garage. If you want me to, I will call them on the phone—after supper is 7:30—and have them to look over some day. See I would sure like to have a better look at that car."

REMEMBERING THE "TB" HOSPITAL

During the month of November the patients at the Tuberculosis Hospital were very generously remembered with the following gifts: from the following friends: Mrs. Charles Finch, Sowers; Soldiers' Home, blankets; F. W. Diehl, games; Mrs. Levan S. Wines, jelly; Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Wines, magazines; 2 linen table cloths, dozen napkins, fern plant for nurses' room and use, Mrs. F. W. Warren; ice cream for patients, and magazines. Mrs. Mary K. Hoar; ice cream for patients, Ralph Cohen; jelly, Miss Lillian Nelson; greatly appreciated entertainment by members of Atherton Club, which also served the patients with refreshments; magazines from Mrs. Finch, Mrs. Eckert and Miss Van Slyke; 3 potted ferns, A Friend; most generous Thanksgiving box from the W. C. T. U. of Port Jervis; smoking jacket, book and mittens, Mrs. George B. Merritt.

There are now at the hospital two children, little Dorothy Codding and a little ten-year-old lad, Gilbert Donkhan.

Already the Christmas entertainment and celebration at the hospital has been started by the generosity of Mr. Garbarino who will give as has been his custom for years, the Christmas tree. Mrs. C. N. Reed will take charge, as usual, of the Christmas celebration and gifts, and will shortly announce which one of the churches' young people will provide the entertainment. Gifts of money for the purchase of the Christmas presents for the patients may be sent at any time now to Mrs. C. N. Reed, 43 Crown Street, Kingston, N. Y.

ON-A-JOB, OFF-A-JOB JIM!

Being a Story
Of how Jim got on a job and why he got off it again.

"I'd like to put you in the shoe department for a few days," suggested the department store official. "Women's shoes. Come in early, and one of the heads of the department will explain what's what. There was a big rush yesterday and I know they will be glad of an intelligent man to help out."

The buyer was a short, stubby man with a keen sense of humor. "Ain't afraid of vamps, are you?" he asked Jim.

"No women ever scared me," returned Jim laughing. "Ho-ho! Ha-ha! Got you that time! Vamps in shoes. Ha-ha. Though goodness knows, some of the women who come here to buy, come pretty close to beating Theda Bara at her own game."

"Talking about women, they can stand more pain than any man can without whimpering. Look at that female there," pointing to a heavy individual in French heeled pumps. "She ought to be wearing two and a half sizes larger. But it's not my business to force her to it."

Jim felt himself more of a hindrance than a help the first morning, for he spent so much time looking for sizes and styles of shoes called for that he waited on very few customers. He spent most of his lunch hour, however, studying the shelves, and in the afternoon, was able to serve the customers with more alacrity.

A shy mannered young woman slipped languidly into one of the seats. Jim, being idle at that moment, happened to catch her eye. "I want to look at your brown oxfords, size 4-D," she drawled, lifting up a slender ankle for Jim's inspection.

He got the shoe. It fitted to perfection but the woman was not satisfied. "What have you in a brogue?" Jim fitted on a neat brogue, and waited for her decision. "I'm afraid they are too stiff for my feet. I can't stand heavy boots, really! I'd better try a pump."

"You don't want a pump for street use this winter!" "Why not, I'm as sure a pump is as useful as any other kind of a shoe. I always wear overshoes in the worst storms."

"But the ankle is the most susceptible part of the body for catching cold. Why don't you try a high boot? We've got some in a soft pliable leather."

"Well, I might try a few pairs on—and the pumps too."

Jim laced up the full height of three different pairs of high boots. He buttoned one pair of button shoes. He fitted on pumps and low shoes of all varieties, high heel low heel, Cuban, French. Other customers came and went, but the little lady sat on the seat dictating and suggesting to Jim.

The youth groaned as he looked at the ever increasing pile of shoes to be put away when his customer had finally decided which pair of shoes she wanted. At length he noted his devoted appearance, for when he brought up the twentieth pair he smiled early into his face. "I'm so sorry you're going to so much trouble. No trouble, I assure you," murmured Jim.

"I'm ever so much obliged to you. I didn't really want to buy any shoes today anyway. I just love to look them over. Thank you so much. She rose and shook her skirt down. "Next time I come in I'll ask for you. You've been so dear!"

Crowded Belgium

Belgium's "Revera" Work for Their Kesp.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

No country injured by the World war set about more earnestly to achieve reconstruction than Belgium, the one which suffered most cruelly and dramatically from the conflict. Though the damage done to the country through property destroyed, pillage and financial exactions by the Germans reached the tremendous sum of 30 billions of francs according to the estimate of the Belgium Comité Central Industriel, the people, with characteristic industry and thrift, took up the heavy task of resuscitating their country's industrial life as soon as the armistice had been signed. By the beginning of 1920 they had made such great strides that, with the exception of the steel and glass industries, production averaged three-quarters or more of pre-war production; the coal output had even reached 94 per cent and the refined sugar output 100 per cent.

But the post-war reaction which struck the United States and other countries in 1920 affected Belgium, too; and since the spring of that year Belgium has had its share of depression, closed and part-time factories and unemployment. The drought which affected many parts of the northern hemisphere has been felt in Belgium, with the result that harvests are less and food prices higher. Where the price index of living costs was 100 in 1914 it was 477 in October, 1920, and had reached only 334 in August, 1921. But the adverse economic forces in operation since early in 1920 have caused suffering even in countries not involved in the World war; and to understand that Belgium, in spite of present trials, is in a fair way to outstrip the other war-torn countries in the return to normal, it is only necessary to consider conditions in the little kingdom before the war broke in upon it.

Its Population Is Dense.

The Belgium of today has an area less than one-fourth as great as Mississippi, yet it has four times the population of that state. Twenty-two and a half countries like Belgium would be required to make a state like Texas, and if Texas were as densely populated as Belgium it would have as many people as the United States and Germany together now possess. If the entire United States had as many people to the square mile as Belgium—that is, continental United States, exclusive of Alaska—we would have more people here than there are in the entire world today. You could concentrate all the people of the seven seas and of all the continents here and still have room for enough more to repopulate the continent of Europe as it now stands.

It must follow from this that such a vast population, living within such narrow confines—7,529,000 souls within an area of 11,323 square miles—must be a frugal people, accustomed to self-denial, skilled in the art of economical living, and masters of the science of intensive industry; yet with all this density of population, with all the exactions of forced economy, there are a people who had so ordered their relations with one another and with their government that happiness and contentment seemed to dwell with them as with but few other peoples, and this in spite of diverse descent and diverse tongues.

Two Distinct Peoples.

Within Belgium's small territory—smaller in area than Massachusetts and Connecticut—there are nearly three million Flemings, who cannot talk with their compatriot Walloons, and about as many Walloons who cannot hold converse with their countrymen Flemings. In their habits of mind and their methods of going about life, the two peoples differ as widely as the English and the French, and in their speech they are as different as the Germans and the Scandinavians; and yet there is a tie that has bound them together for generations, with never a fratricidal war in their modern history. That tie is the bond of religion, for they all subscribe to the doctrines of the Church of Rome with a heartiness that makes them one of the most devoted people of the Christian era.

Just Imagined!

Among the wives of the English and among the wives of the Germans, the custom of putting small bits of coal among the clean shoes on their beds, they believe that if they neglect to do this their husbands will meet with an accident before the shoes are changed.

French, and only 10 per cent of the people can speak both. The Flemish influence never crossed the Meuse river toward the east, and the Walloon influence reached but a short distance toward the west from that beautiful valley. The line of demarcation between the two peoples is rather sharply marked.

There is a physical difference between the Walloons of eastern Belgium and the Flemings of western Belgium, just as there is a difference of tongue and stock. The Walloons are of stouter build and greater stature, and are dark where the Flemings are fair, thus bespeaking the commingling of Spanish blood. On the other hand the Flemings are the more industrious of the two peoples, and their women are said to be able to prepare the best meals out of the fewest things of almost any race in the world.

Living was cheap in pre-war Belgium. The people had thoroughly mastered the art of intensive farming, and the land, before the great war descended upon the country with its flood of iron, blossomed with the milk and honey of plenty. Being contiguous to the North sea fishing grounds, it has always possessed a liberal supply of fish, which is a staple article of diet with the people.

If living was cheap in Belgium it was no cheaper than conditions called for, because wages certainly were low. Many lace-workers, making the exquisite laces that bear the Belgium mark, worked from the rising to the setting of the sun for five dollars a week. It is said that the average wage of all the breadwinners of the country approximated only $165 a year.

The children work after they are twelve, and all hands in a workingman's family must keep busy in order that no mouth shall go hungry. Even at this it requires, even in normal times, the utmost frugality to make the huckle of income meet the tongue of outgo. So must the Belgian household be an excellent manager. The Belgian wage-earning classes eat but little animal food, and most of that is fish.

All Are Early at Work.

The day begins early for everybody in Belgium, and particularly with the wage-earners. More than half of Belgium's population lives outside the towns, and they are up at their work before the gray dawn is dispersed by the rising sun, and on clear mornings the lights of hundreds of cottages may be seen vying with the stars as they twinkle forth their message of households bestirring.

In the towns and cities the people are downtown almost as early as their neighbors across the English Channel are at breakfast. They get their midday meal around noon, and they go home for it, since remarkably low tramway fares make this possible. So it is that, instead of a mug of milk and a sandwich at some quick lunch, many a Belgian burglarerushes up shop at 12, goes home to his largest meal of the day, eats it leisurely, and returns downtown by 2 o'clock.

The Belgian government has always felt a keen interest in the welfare of the wage-earner and the man of small affairs, and has made it possible for them to buy homes on easy terms.

Cooperation of Builders.

Over the Gower of their national bank, the Belgians have carved an adage which reads: "If you employ a man, trust him. If you cannot trust him, do not employ him." That is a good philosophy to apply to friendship as well as to business—Belgium.

TO BRIGHTEN SUIT OR FROCK

Woolen embroidery on suits and frocks is necessary this year. The model shows little woolen tufts on a smart winter suit of gray velours, colored, cuffed and edged with broad bands of gray squirrel.

SUITS OF TWEED IN FAVOR

Imported Mixture Fabrics Hold Lead Among Materials From Which to Model Sport Outfits.

For autumn sports, suits of tweed, and other imported mixture fabrics are regarded most favorably. The light mist tones, as well as the more obvious high shades, are spoken of well for country wear for this purpose. These suits are made in the conventional semi-fitted, or straight-line jacket of from 32 to 36-inch length, in both belted and unbelted models. The unbelted jacket, with two or three buttons; both single and double breasted, is considered a little newer for this season. Some of these have the semi-fitted flare of the riding habit jacket, while others drop straight into a box contour.

The composite mode, consisting of two colors in sometimes two fabrics, makes a strong bid for favor this season, especially by dint of the unshakable vogue of the jumper dress mode. Some of the most charming little sport costumes, developed for golf, hiking or other outdoor wear, are fashioned with a one-piece dress, cut in jumper style of a fabric, generally a mixture, while the jacket is of another material in harmony, of course, with the color scheme of the dress.

There is no hard and fast rule as to the choice of fabric for the dress, for it is perhaps in this kind of style that designers and wearers are able to express a little diversity in the more or less uniform sport costume. Checks, stripes and tweeds are all in line for this usage, fashioned in many instances with pipings, pockets, and sometimes guimpes of the fabric of the coat.

Carrying this pseudo three-piece costume idea into actuality is the sport suit, consisting of a complete dress, with jacket to match. These suits are invariably seen with short box jackets, with single or not more than two fastenings.

SLEEVES IN FANCY SHAPES

Flowing or Bell Arm Covering Is Promised a Season of Favor—Fitted Undersleeve Is Used.

So much does the sleeve affect the appearance of a dress that a different style of sleeve almost remodels a gown. The sleeves for the autumn and winter season have a growing tendency to fancy shapes and trimmings, though the conservative woman will continue the use of the long close-fitting set-in sleeve. Among other styles the flowing or bell sleeve will have much use. Sometimes a fitted undersleeve in silk, in the style of a deep cuff, is used; and a full muslin sleeve gathered in a cuff-band, such as pictures of former generations show, is suggested for wear under the dress sleeve. These open or hanging sleeves, when used last winter in fur or cloth coats had frequently the undersleeve of silk or cloth, finished with a fur wrist-band. This gave the necessary warmth.

The flowing sleeve, in dresses, will sometimes be faced with a contrasting color, and in many cases panels and tunics will have facings to match the sleeve facing. Crepe de chine sleeves in cloth dresses are another novelty promised; and as for armholes they cannot be too large for the styles. Some are oblong and reach to the waistline, while others are broad and square. Broad contrasts in color between the dress and its sleeves are seen.

Gowns Recently Seen.

Black chiffon and black lace were combined in a smart dinner gown recently seen. This was a panel frock, accented by panels of chiffon being hung over a satin foundation, with shorter panels of the lace over the chiffon. This dress featured the wide sleeves falling away from the arms. They were of chiffon and edged with lace. Another gown of similar type seen at dinner was of georgette in a lovely shade of gray, the skirt banded with silver and the girdle of cloth of silver.

Great Russian Lake.

The Great Russian Lake, in the Caspian mountains, is the most deeply frozen lake in the world. It is 15 miles long and 4 1/2 miles wide. It is 2,000 feet down to the surface of the water, but depth of water is unknown.

LITTLE TALKS ON THRIFT

by S. W. STRAUS, President American Society for Thrift.

We are at the end of another year, and it is an appropriate time to review our personal progress. What has the year brought us in the way of advancement? Has it meant the saving of money, the opening of a personal savings account, the ownership of home, the elimination of wasteful habits, the carrying out of carefully laid plans for our welfare and upbuilding? Or has it meant squandered money, dissipation, lost opportunities and unkept resolutions?

tempt to find excuses for any failure that may have been ours.

It is the part of wisdom to face conditions with a resolute heart, and, out of the experiences of this year, build a solid foundation upon which we can stand and make our fight in the future.

Let us enter the new year with the fixed determination to make it count. If the pathway of the past year has led us along ways that were ill-advised, let us say unto ourselves that a 1922 shall mark the turning point.

These are the questions we should ask ourselves at this time, and if we have been delinquent in the performance of our duties to our own best interests we should have the courage to look the facts squarely in the face.

Nothing ever is to be gained by excuses and apologies. Those who succeed do so in spite of obstacles. They conquer circumstances and are made strong thereby. It is the weakling who surrenders to life's adversities. It may seem a pitiless creed, but it is never; it is a fundamental law of life, that we gain strength and make progress only as we are able to conquer adversity.

In reviewing the story of our past year let us not at-

The coming year will quite likely be a period of radical improvement in general business conditions. It will bring happier and more prosperous days to millions of our citizens. It will be a time fraught with unusual opportunities for personal development and progress.

Let us remember that each man must be the master of his own destiny, that success or failure is his to bestow and that the foundation of personal success is thrift. This joyous yet impressive end-of-the-year period is a time when we must give sanctuary to the deepest thoughts of personal destiny.

In the Volunteer Hospital, in the lower end of New York's waterfront, there is a little woman who has "wonder hands." Many parents of crippled children will testify to that. Mme. Fanny Amato is the "lady of the wonder hands." She employs nothing but a pressure by the hands on the nerves and tendons of a patient. Those who have been benefited by her treatments claim she has a supernatural gift in her curative powers. The photo shows Mme. Amato working over a little patient.

Let Us Have Peace on Earth. People are always expecting to get peace in heaven; but you know what ever peace they get there will be ready-made. Whatever of making peace they can be best for must be on the earth here—Ruskin.

Strange Marriage Custom. One of the strangest marriage customs is observed by some of the women of Assin. The bride goes to fetch the bridegroom, and it is etiquette for him to hide and resist until carried off.

"NO WOMAN KNOWS"

The amazing story of "FANNY HERSELF," the famous novel by Edna Ferber. Here is marvelously pictured the drama of a woman's battle with the world. Caught in a whirlpool of desperate experiences, she is finally swamped by the cross-currents of love and swept to the crest of happiness. It's a great picture—don't miss it.

The Big Eating Nations. Among modern nations the greatest eaters are the Germans, English, French and the Americans, according to one authority. The diet of the Spaniards and the Italians is notably less substantial than that of the English and Germans. The Americans, this authority holds, are on the average the greatest eaters in the world. Carlyle said to Emerson: "The best thing I know of that country is that in it a man can have meat for his labor."

A Play That Will Make the Whole World Laugh!

It's a Mass of Mirth and Merriment

Mark Twain's Idea of What Arthur's Court Was Like.

The plumbing was bad in King Arthur's Court.

There was no telephone system.

The brave knights, the flower of chivalry, spent their time—

1. Eating.
2. Drinking.
3. Slaying dragons.
4. Rescuing damsels.
5. Fighting.

There were no carpets on the floor of King Arthur's Court—only rushes.

None of the knights thought it worth while to learn to read and write.

Not one of them knew the difference between a carburetor and a spark plug. They believed that Merlin was a mighty powerful magician.

Until the Yankee arrived. He taught them different.

First he put the plumbing to rights. Then he pulled the great magician's whiskers. Then he installed telephones throughout the realm. Then he improved the knights' table manners. Then he took on a few knights in a tournament, and licked them single-handed. Then he mounted the celebrated flower of chivalry on motor-cycles.

All this was even as Pie unto him.

When he had nothing else to do he did a job or two of rescuing, and one fair damsel was so grateful that she fell in love with him.

His title was "Sir Boss," and his uniform consisted largely of a top hat and a pair of garters. This was considered a very dignified get-up, and it did his reputation among the knights a lot of good.

All this is the product of the master brain of Mark Twain, America's greatest literary figure and the world's greatest humorist. Mark Twain wrote his masterpiece, "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," to prove that the present is the best of all possible times to live in, and that the Age of Chivalry was not all it is cracked up to be. The screen version conveys the message that Mark Twain conveyed in words, with every thrilling moment, every laugh-arousing incident and all the relicking fun of it, in visual form.

Good Literature Still Produced.

Amid the making of many books, good literature is still produced, as it was in the days of Thackeray and Dickens, Carlyle and Ruskin, Tennyson and Browning, Irving and Hawthorne and Lowell and Emerson, out of the hearts of men and women who write because they love it, and who do their work in their own way because they know that, for them, it is the best way.—Henry van Dyke

True Co-operation.

You owe it to the boss to be steadfastly loyal and to give a full honest, good measure day's work every day. The boss, then, owes you a fair wage, a wholesome working place, co-operation with your efforts to make yourself more efficient, and a friendly personal interest.—Frank Andrews Fall.

Definition of "Cattle."

Webster defines cattle thus: "Collectively, live animals held as property or raised for some use, now usually confined to quadrupeds of the bovine family, but sometimes including all domestic quadrupeds as sheep, goats, horses, mules and swine."

Wisdom.

Wisdom alone is the true and unalloyed coin for which we ought to exchange all things, for this and with this everything is bought and sold—fortitude, temperance, and justice: in a word, true virtue subsists with wisdom.—Plato.

No Fear of 13.

There may be superstitions connected with numbers 13 and 23, but hotel guests seldom express them when rooms bearing hoodoo numbers are assigned to them, say hotel clerks. The direction of the bed in the rooms or the amount of light is the basis for more superstition than jinx numerals, the clerks declare. Dark rooms, the guests object, are "spooky," and they do not care to occupy them. Their protest against the direction in which a bed is pointing is made on the ground that it is hard for them to sleep with their heads lying in an unaccustomed direction, and furthermore an ill omen is attached to doing it.

Genius

Genius is the power to see facts before their importance dawns on the mass of mankind. When a man is too soon about it he is burned at the stake or starved to death. But if by chance or good guidance his mental offspring appears at the proper psychological hour he earns a niche in the undying hall of fame. If he can clothe it in an outward garb of artistic expression he is entitled to two niches.
